

PWN encourages an 'Safe Harbour' environment where our members, partners and guests feel comfortable.

As such we ask you to take note of the following while participating at any PWN events or activities:

- 'PWN Four Walls Policy': Whatever is discussed in these four walls stays in these four walls.
- No media are in attendance and no social media coverage including blogs of PWN events.
- Many people participate in PWN events in a private capacity, as individuals and in family groups. Therefore absolutely no "hard selling" is allowed.
- Please don't push business cards on other participants unless people ask you for them
- No photographing or recording of participant lists which may be posted at events
- Individuals have the right to their anonymity, please respect this
- No contact details will be circulated at an event

Please see a member of the PWN team if you have any questions